

"Painting the Porch" A Play on Five Porches

The featured event of the 21st Annual Bethel Art Fair, July 3, 2010

"Painting the Porch" - a play on five porches is based on the search of a "once famous" artist for the perfect Norman Rockwell Fourth-of-July porch to paint. It is a complex production involving over 20 local actors, musicians, visual artists, directors and writers and five Bethel Village historic home porches.

Painting the Porch is an innovative project created by the Bethel Performing Arts Project in 2009 as way to involve local businesses with the local performing arts community to generate new economic opportunities through cultural tourism, which helps to build our Creative Economy - the portion of our region's revenue based on creative enterprises and activities like Painting the Porch.

In 2010, the Bethel Performing Arts Project and Mahoosuc Arts Council formed a collaboration to present Painting A Porch as the featured event of the 21st Annual Bethel Art Fair.

Painting the Porch gives sponsoring businesses an opportunity to advertise and market themselves in a dynamic and creative way, to engage new customers, and encourage them to return to Bethel for a longer visit.

We would like to include your name, company name or memorial as a supporter of this project in the 21st Annual Bethel Art Fair program and on our beautiful collectable posters as a sponsor which can be viewed under the Bethel Art Fair link on: www.mahoosucarts.org.

We thank you for your consideration and look forward to providing your business with new opportunities in collaboration with the arts in Bethel.

Please call anytime if you have questions or need more information.

Sincerely,

Ross Timberlake, Bethel Performing Arts Project Co-Volunteer Coordinator - Tel: 824-3353
